Very little change is noticeable in the standing today except that the Jackson Township Public Schools reach the head of the list by a very narrow margin. Others down the line have made gains. The apparent lack of progression in the standing is no doubt due to the holiday. It is probable that the workers were too busily engaged in eating Thanksgiving turkey and afterwards digesting it to devote much time to the contest.

However, everybody interested in some candidate is planning to help and boost at the proper time. The present apparent quietude presages a perfect storm of ballots to come later.

The votes are bound to pile up in thousands with every contestant on an equal basis or footing with their competitors. The equality of strength of the candidates is beyond question. It is only a duty of getting the votes and getting after your friends with vim and vigor. Because some candidate takes the lead is no indication that they are going to win, but it is a certain and sure sign that the leading candidates have a bunch of loyal, energetic workers in the field who are not wasting their time speculating about what their competitors are doing.

The reason your church or school happens to stand low in the contest is simply because you and your fellow members haven't exerted yourselves and are NEGLECTING YOUR OPPORTUNITY. It is impossible to hold back energetic candidate and make them wait for your organization to catch up. You will never earn a piano by timidly waiting to see if you have a better chance to win than some one else. Get in the game and stay in. That's the way to do things.

Right here in Seymour thousands of votes await the aggressive workers. All that is necessary is to go out among the people and ask for them.

WORK. DON'T STOP TO COUNT. WORK. It does no good to wait and count how many votes you are going to get. While you are counting and doubting some one else is going to steal a march on you and get the votes. Do you remember the story of the milkmaid and the pail of milk? Well, the milkmaid "figgered" and "figgered,"

Leaves For California.

Mrs. Trace Cooper, of 15 South Broadway, has received a letter from Mr. Cooper, formerly a B. & O. S-W. employe, who is firing an engine out of Needles, Cal., stating that he is delighted with his change and writes his wife to prepare to join him there as soon as she can. Mrs. Cooper will leave for California soon. The neighbors and friends met at the home of Mrs. Cooper and presented her with tokens of love and respect. The ladies of the Aid society of the Christian church of which Mrs. Cooper has been an active member, met at the home of Mrs. Chas. Ewing on S. Broadway Friday afternoon for the purpose of bidding Mrs. Cooper farewell. After two hours of social conversation, refreshments were served. After presenting Mrs. Cooper with a elegant sugar shell and berry dish, all departed for their homes wishing her a safe and pleasant journey to her far away new home.

Associations Aid in The Development of Seymour.

The majority of the people little realize the part the building and loan associations have taken in the development of Seymour. Hundreds of homes are now occupied which would never have been in existence had it not been for the building and loan associations. The number of stockholders in these institutions is constantly increasing, and the idea of weekly savings is growing in popularity as it is better understood. The building association plan was originated in Philadelphia in 1832. It did not take it long to receive the approval of the small salaried men who were anxious to lay aside money for the proverbial "rainy day", and also enable them so inclined to acquire their own homes. In the early stages the money collected from the dues was publicly auctioned off to the highest bidder, but this premium plan has not generally existed in later years. Now money can be bought for six per cent, and as long as the interest payments are kept up there seldom are foreclosure proceedings.

The first building and loan association in Seymour was organized in 1873. For several years before its organization there had been a desire among many of the people to form an association where they could lay aside a certain part of their weekly wages. As successful building associations had been started in many of the larger cities and had met with much success, it was decided to organize one here. In the first associations there was not a sufficient capital to make loans to all the stockholders who wished them, and when a sufficient amount of dues had been paid in those wishing to borrow money would draw to determine who would get the loans. Persons who remember the drawings say they were always looked forward to with much interest. A different plan is now approved which is far more satisfactory.

It is estimated that nearly eight hundred homes have been built, entirely or in part through the building and loan associations. At the present time the mortgage loans of the building and loan associations of Seymour amount to nearly three hundred thousand dollars. There are at this time nearly fifteen hundred stockholders paying weekly payments into the associations. Of this number possibly six hundred are borrowing members. With these facts it is easy to see the great importance of these institutions to this city and community.

The associations have enabled persons to purchase homes, which they would have been unable to acquire under ordinary circumstances. According to the plan of the building associations the members are permitted to borrow a limited amount of money and secure the loan by mortgage upon the property which is appraised by the board of directors. An interest is then charged for the use of the money, but the stockholder is allowed to reduce the principal as he can, thus giving him an opportunity to build a home upon much the same plan as he pays rent, and thus provide a home for himself and family without a burdensome sacrifice.

Shut Down For Repairs.

The Seymour Woolen Mills shut down Wednesday evening until Monday to make a number of repairs and improvements and add some new machinery. Three of the older looms have been taken out and eight others were being placed in position. The eight looms weigh about 3,800 pounds each and were shipped here from Louisville. They were in use two years in a large cashmere factory in Louisville but have been lying idle since the mill closed its doors three years ago. Besides placing in the new machines a lot of new shafting is being put in and some work is being done on the boilers. With the new looms that are being placed the company will have sixty-eight in use. They have in quite a number of orders and the prospects are good for the future. They are now running ten hours per day and as usual are furnishing employment to about one hundred sixty hands.

The value of the new machinery that is being put in the building just now is several thousand dollars and the additional number of looms will increase their capacity for filling large orders promptly. The mill was enlarged only a few years ago and extensive improvements made. Their prosperity is in line with all the other leading factories in Seymour and speaks well for Seymour as a factory city.

Cheer Court Ruling.

As soon as Mayor Kyte declared Elza Clemens not guilty of stealing of $135 from Vincenzo Allegro, the banana man, and discharged him, a cheer of approval went up from the crowd in the court room. Clemens had been arrested upon an affidavit by Allegro, but the evidence failed to connect him with the alleged theft. He had worked for Allegro for several months, at his wholesale fruit store on east Third street. The trial was held yesterday afternoon at the city building.

Light and Fire Protection.

The residents in the northwest part of Seymour feel that they are entitled to city privileges the same as citizens in other sections of the city. Their property has been incorporated as a part of Seymour and the property owners are required to pay city taxes, yet we are furnished no light or fire protection. The nearest electric light and fire plug are located at the corner of Pine and Seventh streets which are too far away to be of any benefit or protection. It has been rumored that the council will not locate the light and hydrant unless the cost is paid by the petitioners. So far as we know this has not been the custom in other parts of the city and we are wanting to know why this additional burden should be borne by us, when the regular rate of taxation has been assessed against our property. We are asking for no special favors. All we wish for are the usual privileges and protection given to citizens of Seymour. W. J. HOUGHEN.

Stricken On Car.

While returning from Indianapolis on a late interurban car Friday night, Fremont Reed, suffered an attack of heart trouble and until early this morning was in a critical condition. The conductor of the car noticed that Mr. Reed seemed to be ill and discovered that he was unconscious. When the car reached Seymour medical assistance was immediately summoned and Mr. Reed was taken home in the ambulance. He did not regain consciousness until about 8 o'clock this morning, but is now much improved. He has not been in the best of health for several weeks and it is supposed his illness was caused by nervousness. His condition is not now considered serious, and he will probably be up within a few days.

PERILS OF THE AIR

The Balloon Game Claims Two Victims in Austria.

Vienna, Nov. 27.—The bodies of Dr. Brenckman and Hugo Francke, daring members of the Aero club of Berlin, were found near Fiume, Austria-Hungary. They had been killed by the collapse of their balloon "Kolmar." Their bodies were badly mangled. Near by was the wrecked balloon with a huge rent in the silk gas-bag that told the tale of the disaster.

There appears to be some mystery connected with the accident. The officials of the Aero club say that Brenckmann was found with his eyes bandaged with a black cloth. They do not believe that the balloon burst, but think that it was caught by the wind and dashed against the lofty cliffs. It is suggested that either Brenckmann died before Francke, and the latter bound his companion's eyes, or that Brenckmann did not want to witness the death of his friend, and so bandaged his own eyes.

NEWSPAPERS DOOMED TO DISAPPOINTMENT

There Can Be No "Advance" On President's Message.

Washington, Nov. 27.—With the exception of the most complete newspapers in the large cities, it is probable that the press of the country will not be able to present to their readers the full text of President Taft's first annual message to the congress on the day of its delivery or the immediately following days. In recent years the small newspapers as well as the great metropolitan dailies were able to have a presidential message in type days before its submission to congress and by a system of telegraphic "release," to have editions containing the message on the street within a few minutes after its reading was begun in the senate or the house. Present conditions are against such publication this year. Although congress will reassemble on Dec. 6, President Taft has not commenced the actual preparation of his first extended communication to the national legislature, which is expected to be a state paper of unusual importance to the country. It is explained that he is engaged still in gathering material to aid him in the expression of his views and has not entered on the labor of utilizing this material through the expression of sentiments of his own composition. It was added that the president would call in a stenographer within a day or so and that he would make short work of the task of whipping the message into the shape in which it will be laid before congress.

Even with the best prospect, however, copies of the message cannot be obtained in time to mail to remote parts of the United States, and the chances are that a good many American newspapers will have to receive this document of great length by telegraph, a process which will entail a slaughter of the text in some cases and a tremendous strain on the telegraph service of the country in others where the newspapers too far away to receive the message by mail will order its transmission in full by wire.

BANKER PLEADS GUILTY

Phil Allen, Jr., Sentenced to Penitentiary For Ten Years.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 27.—Phil Allen, Jr., former vice president of the First National bank of Mineral Point, Wis., pleaded guilty before Judge Sanborn in the United States court, to four out of twenty-six counts in the indictment against him and was sentenced to ten years in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., the maximum under the law of any one count. Allen was charged with embezzling $168,000 from the Mineral Point bank, which recently closed its doors. Allen is sixty-two years old. He will be taken to LaCrosse to appear before the grand jury and tell all he knows about the bank crash. It was said that he would implicate others in the wrecking of the institution.

NOT WORTH TROUBLE

To Answer Parkhurst's Anti-Suffrage Talk, Says Mrs. Belmont.

New York, Nov. 27.—When Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont was asked to answer in detail some of the arguments advanced by Dr. Parkhurst in his Thanksgiving sermon against woman suffrage, she replied that it really was not worth the trouble. "I am giving all my time to the work for woman suffrage," she said, "and more especially just now to the cause of the wage-earning woman, and have no time to waste on a man who shows by his remarks that either he is in his dotage or else making another of his bids for notoriety."

NEIGHBORS IN FEAR

Dynamiting at Clinton Creates Apprehension of Further Trouble.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 26.—Father Clancy, who has been an assistant at St. Patrick's church in Terre Haute, has been sent by Bishop Chatard to take charge of the Sacred Heart church at Clinton. Father Maher, the pastor, has been withdrawn. Threats against his life have been made ever since the attempt recently to destroy the church with dynamite. Residents of the neighborhood have been afraid to spend the nights in their homes and many have slept at the houses of distant friends or relatives.

Father Maher had made enemies by strict enforcement of the church regulations. He was not the first priest of the parish toward whom there has been violence. A predecessor was whitecapped some years ago, but church doctrine had no part in the affair. Nor were the whitecappers members of the church.

DAY OF PROTEST THE SCHEME OF A WOMAN

She Proposes General Strike In Labor Leaders' Behalf.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—A million and a half men and women affiliated with the American Federation of Labor will cease work on the day that Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison go to jail for contempt of court, and raise their voices in protest, if the plans proposed by Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the National Women's Trade Union League can be carried out.

On her return from the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor at Toronto Mrs. Robins began her campaign for a "day of protest," which in effect will be a general strike for one day. At a meeting of the executive board of the Chicago Woman's Trade Union League Mrs. Robins laid her plans before her colleagues and found a ready response. Later prominent officials of labor organizations endorsed the idea and will work to bring about its accomplishment.

FIXING FOR FIGHT

Republican Insurgents Gathering in Washington Full of Ginger.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Republican insurgents who are arriving in Washington want to know as soon as possible the position President Taft intends to assume toward the contest to be waged this winter on the leadership of Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon. The house insurgents are determined, apparently, to continue the fight on

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE.

Mr. Cannon, while Senators Cummins of Iowa, LaFollette of Wisconsin and Bristow of Kansas declare that in the senate the old leadership will keep on the run. It is said the president will not interfere unless the tactics of the insurgents menace the legislative program which he will submit to congress next month. He will take no hand in the factional rows within the party, unless he is forced to do so. He will not countenance any controversy that threatens to defer the enactment of legislation that he regards as desirable in the interests of the general welfare of the country.

New Orleans, Nov. 26.—Private cable messages received from Bluefields declare the reason Vice Consul Caldera has not replied to the state department's queries concerning the executions of the two Americans, Grace and Cannon, is because the insurgents are encamped about Managua and already have control of the cable station

DR. PARKHURST STIRS UP A HORNET'S NEST

Takes a Rap at American Suffragine Leaders.

New York, Nov. 26.—In his Thanksgiving sermon at the Madison Square Presbyterian church, Dr. Chas. H. Parkhurst considered woman's suffrage. As his text he took the verse from Genesis: "So God created man in his own image; in the image of God created he him, male and female created he him."

Dr. Parkhurst asked: "Why was it that 'God created man male and female'? Are we to understand that it is simply a physiological contrivance for the production of population? Are those who stand at the front of this movement prepared to put upon the relation between the sexes a merely animal interpretation?"

"Perhaps they do not think that. It is to be hoped that they do not. But what do they think? Is asking too much of these dear sisters of ours who are sometimes a good deal up in the air, to come down to the prosaic level of distinct and coherent thought and tell us in words that have in them neither rhapsody nor vituperation and that the male mind can keep up with, just why there are two sexes?"

"Biologists tell us that the higher we go in the scale of animal life the more the respective functions of the two sexes become differentiated—more and more widely separated from each other in their quality, aptitude and mission. From which we have to conclude that the finer the type of the human civilization the more widely apart man and woman will become in all that relates to the ingredients of their personality, and, therefore, to their interests and their respective spheres of service. What may have individually transpired between ladies in the recent Carnegie hall audience and members of the other sex that rendered them so cheerfully responsive to reflections and innuendoes inflicted upon members of that other sex, I do not know, of course. I do know that there was one woman conspicuously present on the platform who had herself changed husbands, so I suppose there must have been something in her case that might give point to her objections. Yes, and there was another one there, too, prominently connected with the movement—I mean the eruption—that also belonged to the migratory sisterhood. I do not mean at all that this agitation is in the interests of what might be called 'tandem polygamy,' but our ladies of the delicacy with which they are supposed to be possessed and with which as a rule they certainly are possessed, should be made thoughtful by facts of that kind and should be assured that the underlying spirit of any revolution is likely to be more or less accurately represented in the personal quality of the leaders of that revolution."

THEY SEEK HELP

Representatives of Bituminous Coal Interests Call on the President.

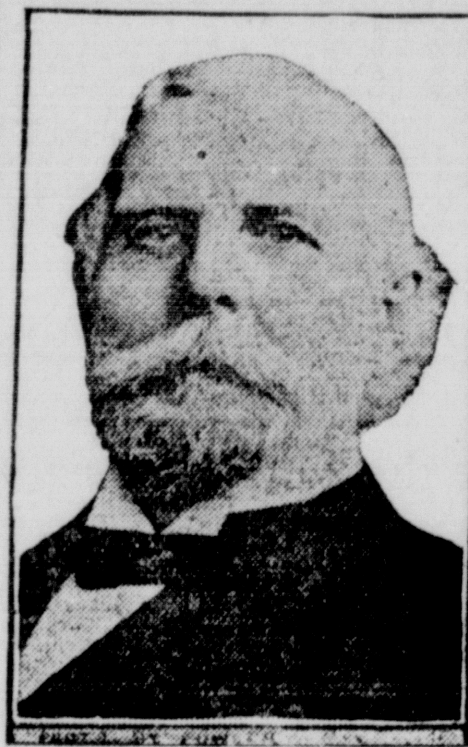

Washington, Nov. 24.—Bituminous coal operators of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia, have combined in a request that railroads of the country shall be permitted to pool freight under supervision of the government and today representatives of the soft coal interests of all these states were granted an audience by President Taft for the purpose of laying the matter before him.

President Taft was urged to make plain in his coming message the necessity for taking immediate action against car shortages and freight congestions such as are now throttling the coal men of the different states.

TWO MORE VICTIMS OF A BITTER FEUD

Two West Virginia Women Slain By Sheriff's Posse.

Williamson, W. Va., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Charles Daniels and her sixteen-year-old daughter were shot to death near Devon, Mingo county, by officers while firing from the doorway of their home on a sheriff's posse to give their father and brother time to escape.

The shooting of Mrs. Daniels and her daughter grew out of a family feud between the Christians and the Danielses on the border of Kentucky and West Virginia. The Christians lived in Mingo county, West Virginia, and the Daniels family lived in Pike county, Kentucky.

About three weeks ago George Christian ventured to the Kentucky side and was killed by Jim Daniels. Christian and Daniels were brothers-in-law and had formerly been allies. After the killing of Christian the two families and their friends became involved. The Christians obtained warrants for Jim Daniels and his brother Charles, and led a posse of Pike county officers to the Daniels home. When the officers approached within a few feet of the house Mrs. Daniels and her daughter opened fire with rifles, one of the posse receiving a bullet in the arm.

The Christians opened fire. Mrs. Daniels was shot down in the doorway, but the sixteen-year-old daughter stood over her prostrate form and fired on the posse until she dropped dead across her mother, pierced by three bullets. The officers closed in, but by forfeiting their lives the mother and daughter had so effectively covered the retreat of the father and brother that they made their escape.

Beets, Italian Style.

To prepare beets as the Italians do scrub the beets without breaking the skin. Do not trim the roots or the juices will run out. Cook the beets in boiling water till tender, drain, cover them with water and push off the skin with the hands. Cut each beet into quarters lengthwise and place them on a serving dish. In the meanwhile mix two tablespoonsful of flour and one-fourth of a teaspoonful each of salt and pepper, pour on half a cup of cold water, mix, then pour on half a cup of boiling water and stir until smooth and boiling. Add a tablespoonful of lemon juice and beat in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Pour this sauce over the beets and serve at once.

A Fashion Chat on House Frocks.

The one-piece gown is the ideal costume for home wear, whether it be for afternoon or morning. The latter calls for simple frocks, but these follow the general lines that are accepted for more dressy occasions, the difference being in the material employed and the trimming; then, too, a frock for the home may be very plain, while one for hotel life at a winter resort or similar wear needs to be of a more elaborate character.

The light-weight woolen fabrics are used extensively now for these dresses, panama, cashmere, shepherd's checked moiré and challis being reliable. For a wash dress, French gingham, various kinds of linen, riques and rep are suitable for winter.

To develop these frocks more elaborately the same materials may be bridled with soutache or rat-tail cord, embroidered in a fur-like tone, and sometimes have a lace or net yoke inset and close-fitting sleeves of the thin goods as tucked over the ed net or chiffon. Then again, a dainty touch is given by wearing collar and cuffs of lace-trimmed lawn.

For the loose house dress which permits of lounging when one needs rest, the silk and cotton crepes, flowered or plain challis and French flannel are all attractive, comfortable and exceedingly practical. Fancy ribbon in contrasting color is pretty for belt, sash and borders, and feather-stitching with the heavy twist is a most effective finish, giving a pleasing and dainty touch. If a clever needlewoman has the time she may use embroidery on her house gowns and the gain in appearance is very great for the agreeable work expended in producing such results.

Two house-gowns of simple design are illustrated at the left. They need little or no decoration save linen or lawn collars and cuffs, the one at the top being closed in front and the buttons may be a decorative feature. These dresses can be developed in light weight panama, challis, mohair, foulard, madras, gingham and other wash materials. The one above can be had in Pictorial Review patterns No. 3294 in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The medium size requires 4½ yards of 36-inch material.

The lower figure in Pictorial Review pattern No. 3207 and in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The medium size requires 7½ yards of 36-inch goods.

Dark-blue challis, having graduated polka dots is shown on figure No. 3103, with lace-edged lawn collar and cuffs. This attractive frock can be copied in gingham, linen and other wash fabrics as well as cashmere and silk. It has the princess panel at the front and back, but at the sides three gores in the skirt are attached to the side bodies of the waist by a narrow belt. Pictorial Review patterns of this model are in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. The medium size requires 5 yards of material 40 inches wide.

No matter what kind of a frock is worn at home a dainty apron adds a delightfully feminine touch, and furthermore protects the front of the dress. A little apron such as the one pictured here is invaluable whether one is doing fancy work or darning stockings. When presiding at the chafing dish also is this accessory much needed. A dainty model is pictured in No. 3201. Shallow pockets are a feature of this one and the apron is tied at the back. Pictorial Review patterns are in one size only, 1½ yards 36-inch material and 1¼ yards of edging being required. Price 10 cents.

Patterns of the above including cutting and construction guides, are 15 cents except apron.

THE OTHER SIDE OF STORY OF EXECUTION

Cannon and Grace Were Not Laying Mines.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Nov. 26 (by wireless to Colon).—From a reliable source it is learned that Leonard Grace and Leroy Cannon, the two Americans who were lately shot by order of President Zelaya, were not captured while laying mines in the San Juan river, as Zelaya claims, but were with General Chamorro, the insurgent commander, and were taken prisoners during a fight near Colorado Junction. The shooting of Cannon and Grace has caused great indignation here.

The captain of a vessel from Greytown who has visited Provisional Governor Estrada, says that General Chamorro's blockade of that port is ineffective. A heavy sea is running and this alone would prevent the escape of the Zelayan forces cooped up in Greytown by sea should they attempt to get out of the town in that way. Provisions are extremely scarce in the beleaguered city, and it is expected that the Zelayan forces will soon be compelled to capitulate. It is stated here that the United States has or shortly will recognize the insurgents as belligerents. This has intensified the enthusiasm.

JOHN BIGELOW HAS A BIG DAY

New York's "First Citizen" Has Cause for Gratitude.

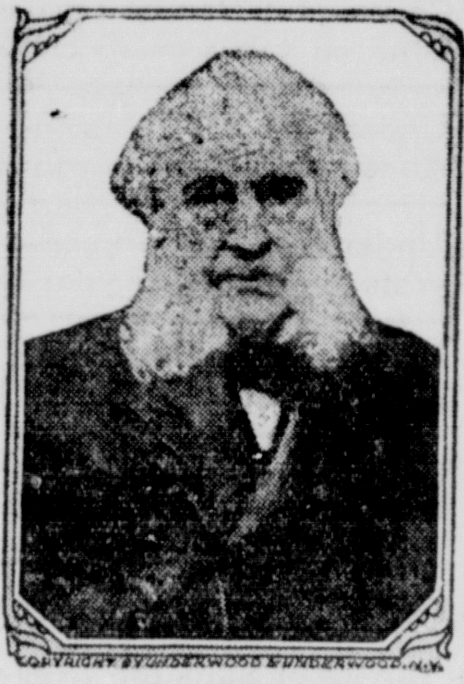

HAS A DOUBLE CELEBRATION

Former Minister to France Celebrated

His Ninety-Second Birthday by Announcing the Engagement of a Granddaughter and Carving a Turkey—In This Latter Exploit He Displayed the Agility and Grace of Twenty-Two, and Promised to Be Equal to the Occasion on Many Succeeding Thanksgivings.

New York, Nov. 26.—The Hon. John Bigelow, former minister to France, celebrated his ninety-second birthday yesterday by carving an important turkey and announcing the engagement of his granddaughter, Miss Grace Tracey, to Thomas J. Cook of Baltimore. There were many other things that enhanced Mr. Bigelow's Thanksgiving, but the turkey and the engagement appeared to give him the most delight.

It was a grand turkey which weighed a quantity of pounds. There were twenty Bigelows who sat around the family table and watched the head of the house perform the serious business of averaging up the white meat with the dark; and besides these there were two very small Bigelows who haven't reached the turkey stage, not even for giblets, but came in for a taste of the gravy.

At carving Mr. Bigelow was as brisk as at twenty-two. He flicked the shining knife upon the shining fork and in a twinkling all the Bigelows had such portions as became their age and standing. There was Poulney Bigelow, friend for many years of the Kaiser; the Hon. Lionel Guest and Mrs. Guest of Montreal; Major John Bigelow and Mrs. Bigelow; Mrs. Charles Tracey and Miss Grace Tracey; Miss Grace Bigelow and a number of grandchildren. All in all, there were two sons, four daughters and fourteen grandchildren who appeared at table, and two great-grandchildren who remained above stairs in the nursery.

Mr. Bigelow, who, as everybody knows, is New York's first citizen, was as spry and merry as he had ever been in his life. He uprose over that turkey, and his own people clapped their hands as if he had been an important somebody or other who had been invited as a guest instead of being just a homebody. There was hardly a crick or a quirk in his six feet. His cheeks were pink and his eyes were bright and his tongue went merrily. He made a little speech which had nothing whatever to do with diplomacy or free trade or letters, but which made it clear to the sons and daughters and grandchildren that Mr. Bigelow was mighty glad to welcome them to a good old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner and believed that he would be there to welcome them to more. Somewhat proudly he announced the engagement. He said that his granddaughter, Grace Tracey, and Thomas J. Cook of Baltimore had become engaged and he bowed gracefully to his right and left.

CHARITIES REPORT

What Indiana Did in This Line During the Past Year.

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—The forthcoming report from the board of state charities now being compiled by A. W. Butler, secretary of the board, will show that the state, during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, spent $2,114,111.71 for maintenance of the fifteen benevolent and correctional institutions under direct control of the board. Of this amount $1,532,381.33 was used for regular operating expenses.

The average number of inmates was 10,583, making the average cost for maintenance $182.59. There were 11,600 inmates enrolled at the end of the year, all but 780 of whom were actually present. The state employed during the year 1,711 persons to care for the inmates. Compared with the preceding year, there is an increase of 480 in the number of inmates enrolled, 578.6 in the daily average attendance, 63.28 in the average number of employees, and a cost of $2.63 in the per capita cost of maintenance.

Good Cough Medicine for Children and Grown Folks, Too.

The above shows the explicit confidence that many mothers place in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, a confidence based on many years' experience in the use of it. No one need hesitate to use this remedy for it contains no chloroform, opium or other narcotics and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

MANY LIVING IN STATE OF DOUBT

Were Living Miners Doomed to Lingering Death?

SEALING OF THE CHERRY MINE

Whatever of Hope Persisted in the Breasts of Those Whose Missing Loved Ones Were Left in Doomed Mine Has Been Forever Dashed by the Action of the Officials in Sealing the Death Cavern—Many in Cherry Still Cling to the Belief That With the Sealing of the Mine Living Men Have Been Doomed to Death.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 26.—The heart-rending picture at the sealed mouth of the mine presents a scene such as has not been witnessed since the first bodies were taken from the depths of the fire-wrecked St. Paul mine. Hundreds of grief-stricken women with worn faces and fatherless children clinging in fear to their dresses gathered in groups about the shaft of the mine, sobbing and moaning. Their sacred dead are lost forever. The realization of the horrible end of the great disaster has aroused a frantic grief. Women fell on their knees, dragging their children with them, sobbing out their cries of despair.

Many in Cherry still cling to the belief that with the sealing of the mine living men have been doomed to death. Mine experts scout the idea and state that such is an impossibility. "Nothing can be done until the fire has died out and the extreme danger of entering the shaft is eliminated," declared W. W. Taylor, the superintendent of the mine.

The dissatisfaction of the miners at the steps taken by the mine owners has been openly voiced. "They are thinking only of saving property and don't care about the dead," exclaimed one gray-haired miner. "We want our dead. The women want the bodies. The company will never get any service from these miners."

The nineteen saloons which are scattered about the town of Cherry have again been flung wide open. The mine officials requested this and Mayor Connelly put it into effect to test the temper of the mining population regarding the sealing of the shaft. Captain Hall sent a detachment of troops under command of a corporal about the town to guard against any turbulence. The shaft, sealed by steel crossbeams and a concrete layer and covered with sand, is closely guarded by the state militia.

Richard Newman, mine inspector for Illinois, sent the following telegram to Governor Deneen: "The St. Paul mine has been sealed. We were forced to do it. Everything is quiet."

Rumors which were started by remarks of miners who lingered about had it there existed a plot to ruin the mine plant and destroy the sealing. "There is some dissatisfaction," I admit," declared Superintendent Taylor, "but we have no fear of trouble. We have been told that the dissent has been angrily voiced, but we do not place any stock in it." It is declared that the mine will remain sealed for at least three months until the present dangerous fire is conquered.

MODIFIES HIS OPINION

"Bob" Tracewell Takes a Rise Out of the Grim Attorney General.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Attorney General Wickersham is winning a reputation for good nature. A few days ago Robert J. Tracewell, the comptroller of the treasury, an officer who is the final arbiter of all questions involving the payment of money out of the treasury, marched into the attorney general's office.

"Mr. Wickersham," said Mr. Tracewell, "I have called to say that some damn fool in the department of justice has given an opinion here that is all wrong and for which there is no precedent."

Mr. Wickersham took the typewritten copy of the opinion in his hands and as he perused it his face took on a grim smile.

"Oh, I see," he remarked, slowly, "I am the 'damn fool' who wrote it." And the story goes that the attorney general was so much impressed with the comptroller's view that he modified the opinion.

The Situation in Managua.

Panama, Nov. 26.—Letters written at Managua and smuggled on board the steamer at Corinto, which have arrived here, state that the situation at Managua is serious beyond description. President Zelaya has surrounded himself with a strong guard of picked loyalists and the presidential palace is a fortress. Martial law is enforced with a rigorous hand. The jails are overflowing. It is impossible to communicate with the outside world from Managua, either by mail or telegraph. All mail deposited in the Managua postoffice is opened and inspected by the government, and as a rule confiscated. No mail arriving at Managua is delivered until it has been opened by the censor. No foreign newspapers have been delivered through the Managua postoffice.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 28, 1909

Paul's Self-Denial. World's Temperance Lesson.—Romans 14: 10-21

GOLDEN TEXT:—It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth. Romans 14: 21.

Bishop Moule speaks of this section of this epistle from chapter xii onward as "present duties in the power of eternal facts." Some of the facts are the sin that is in man, the redemption that is in Christ Jesus for sinful man, the "no condemnation" and "no separation" of chapter viii as a result of that great redemption and the far-reaching, glorious prospect for the whole creation with Israel as a righteous center bringing true riches to all nations. The effect of this upon the mind of the believer should be such a renewal that henceforth he is done with himself and determined to live wholly in the perfect will of God, as a new creature in Christ, old things passed away, all things become new (Rom. xii. 1, 2; II Cor. v. 17). Even Christ pleased not himself, and in the epistles we are taught how we ought to walk and to please God and to let every one of us please his neighbor for his good to edification (xv. 1-3).

Now, it seems to me that the great point in our lesson is that each one should for himself get right in this matter and not misspend his time in seeking to get others right while he himself is all wrong. "Every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (verse 12). Therefore why judge our brother in any matter, and especially in eating and drinking, since all believers must stand before the judgment seat of God, or of Christ, for Christ is God? (Verse 10). If we have received the Lord Jesus, then we are in Christ and are looked upon as having died with Him and risen with Him, so that our judgment for sin is past on Calvary, and we have His assurance that our sins and iniquities He will remember no more.

It is possible as His redeemed ones to walk in the light under the shelter of His precious blood and have conscious and unbroken fellowship with Him as we yield ourselves to Him moment by moment to walk in the good works He has beforehand prepared for us and to live the life of utter self renunciation which He desires us to live to His glory, making it our ambition in all things to be acceptable to Him (Eph. ii. 10; II Cor. iv. 10, 11; v. 9). Although our Lord said to His disciples at the last Passover, "I appoint unto you a kingdom, as My Father hath appointed unto Me, that ye may eat and drink at My table in My kingdom and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel" (Luke xxii. 29, 30), yet "the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost" (verse 17), and the chief object of our thoughts here should not be what shall we eat and drink and wear, but how can we best make manifest and make known His righteousness, which He offers freely to all, and thus hasten His kingdom of peace on earth. We should think of every one on earth as "one for whom Christ died" (verse 15) and trust Him to use us to bring as many as possible to Him, that they might obtain and enjoy His righteousness and peace and then bring others to the same. When the kingdom comes and a King shall reign in righteousness, then on all the earth the work of righteousness shall be peace and the service of righteousness shall be quietness and assurance forever (Isa. xxxii. 1, 17). There can be no peace to an individual or to a nation or to nations apart from righteousness, and there is no righteousness worthy of the name except that which God has provided in Christ, the righteous one; but, believing in Him, we are thus justified and have peace with God and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

Through the comfort of the Scriptures we wait patiently for the hope, and the God of patience and comfort gives us the mind of Christ toward others, while the God of hope fills us with joy and peace in believing, making us to abound in hope through the power of the Holy Spirit, and the God of peace is with us and gives us peace always by all means (Rom. v. 1, 2; xv. 4, 5, 13, 33; II Thess. iii. 16). If it is thus with us the minor matters of eating and drinking will keep their right place and we will never be found insisting that we may eat this and drink that, no matter what others may say; but, being filled with thoughts of His kingdom and glory, we will live for the salvation and edification of others rather than for our own gratification. As believers our self life was crucified with Christ, and now we are to reckon that old life as dead and buried and live a new life wholly unto God (Rom. vi. 6-11), not in anyway tolerating anything for which our hearts would condemn us (verses 22, 23; I John iii. 21).

All that God works in us to will and to do of His good pleasure will be approved, but all that is of or for self or to please men will prove to be wood, hay and stubble to be burned up (I Cor. iii. 11-15). This judgment seat of our lesson is for believers only, that they may be judged for their works and have their places assigned them in the kingdom, and must not be confounded with the judgment of Matt. xxv or the great white throne of Rev. xx.

BRAVADO FAILS

New Albany Boy Bandit Breaks Down in Face of Arraignment.

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 26.—Thomas Jefferson Hoal, the boy bandit who killed Cashier Fawcett and seriously wounded President Williams and a negro chauffeur in his raid on a New Albany bank recently, was arraigned here at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Fearing that an attempt would be made to lynch him, the officers took him from Jeffersonville reformatory under cover of darkness to court, where the judge was in waiting by a previous arrangement. The officers were heavily armed, but were not molested.

The boy pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering Fawcett and was then hurried back to the reformatory.

Before leaving the institution he begged that he be not taken, declaring that he would be killed. The bravado which he showed after his arrest has disappeared.

Writes Home.

John Dixon, who recently went to the National Military Home in Grant County, writes that he spent a very pleasant Thanksgiving. He states that he saw H. Cordell, who is well satisfied with the home and sends regards to his friends here. Mr. Dixon enclosed a menu card for their Thanksgiving dinner which shows that there is no need for any one to go hungry. About fourteen hundred old soldiers were seated at the Thanksgiving table. Mr. Dixon sends regards to his old friends here and will be glad to hear from them.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

BABY'S GRAVE ROBBED

Horrid Crime Has Just Been Revealed in Montana.

Great Falls, Mont., Nov. 27.—One of the most shocking and revolting crimes in the history of northern Montana occurred here when, evidently with the purpose of securing ransom, grave robbers opened the grave in Highland cemetery containing the body of the infant son of Hargeld Conrad, who died here nearly a year ago, and stole the corpse. Conrad is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Conrad. W. G. Conrad is a millionaire Democratic politician, who aspired to the vice presidential nomination at Denver last year.

There is so far no clue to the identity of the body snatchers. The police are working on the case, but with nothing tangible so far to work on. Mrs. Conrad is prostrated and has been taken to the Columbus hospital, where her condition is critical. Her husband is almost distracted with grief. So far the robbers, if their object was blackmail, have made no advances to Mr. Conrad or any of his family.

MEXICO GOING TO PUT PRESSURE ON ZELAYA

Will Join With Us In Curbing Turbulent Spirit.

Washington, Nov. 27.—With a view of reaching an agreement for joint action in the complicated political situation in Central America growing out of the recent revolution in Nicaragua, diplomatic negotiations are in progress between the United States and Mexico. Huntington Wilson, assistant secretary of state, declined to discuss the negotiations with Mexico. The execution of the two Americans, Leroy Cannon and Leonard Grace, of course, is a matter in which Mexico has no concern and will be handled by the United States without outside aid. In restoring peace in Nicaragua and in punishing President Zelaya of that republic for the repeated violations of the conventions of the Central American peace conference in Washington two years ago, Mexico will probably be asked to co-operate with the United States. It is expected that the United States will take decisive action within the next few days. The case against Zelaya, it is understood, is now nearing completion. It is fairly well established, according to press reports from Bluefields, that Grace and Cannon held commissions in the revolutionary army at the time they were captured by General Toledo, the commanding officer of the Nicaraguan troops now besieged in Greytown. According to the view of the legal officers of the state department, they were therefore entitled to treatment as prisoners of war under the usual rules of international law. Officers of the department were gratified at the action of Commander Bertram S. Thesiger of the British cruiser Scylla, in making an official call on Juan J. Estrada, president of the provisional government at Bluefields, recently. They regard his course as an intentional indication of the fact that Great Britain is supporting the policy of the United States.

She Was Despondent.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 27.—Separated from a husband whom she loved, despondent because she lost her position, alone and away from sympathizing friends, Mrs. Edna George, aged twenty, wife of W. C. George of Muncie, drank two ounces of carbolic acid in her room in the Dunn hotel. The woman died three hours later at St. Joseph's hospital.

Another Postoffice Robbed.

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 27.—Robbers broke into the postoffice at Tunnelton, ten miles east of here, and after blowing the safe, they rifled its contents of money and stamps.

~ PINKIE PRIM ~

After having suddenly turned a afternoon, the boys of Pinkie's neighborhood were busy that night putting water on the pavement to for a slide next morning.

When morning came the water was frozen sleek and hard and the boys were out early skating up and down the pavement.

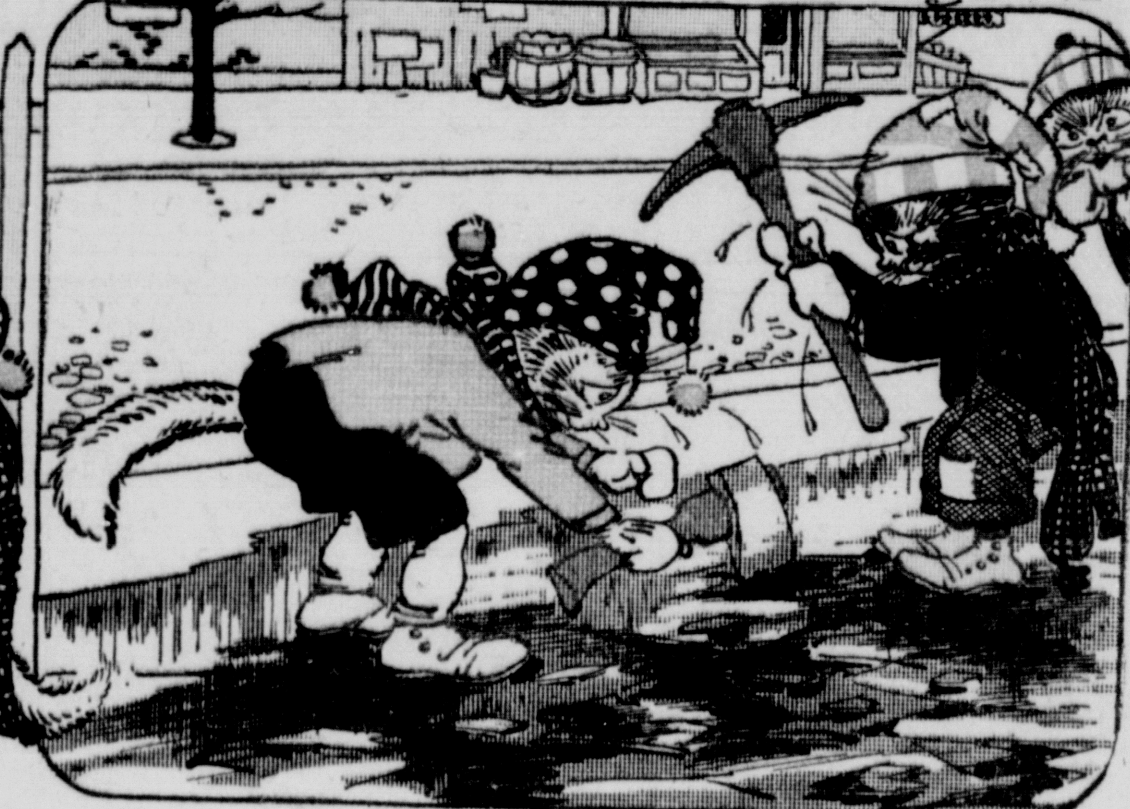

Bye and bye out came Grandpa Lewis for an early morning walk but no sooner had his feet touched the pavement than up flew his heels and bloomp! he fell.

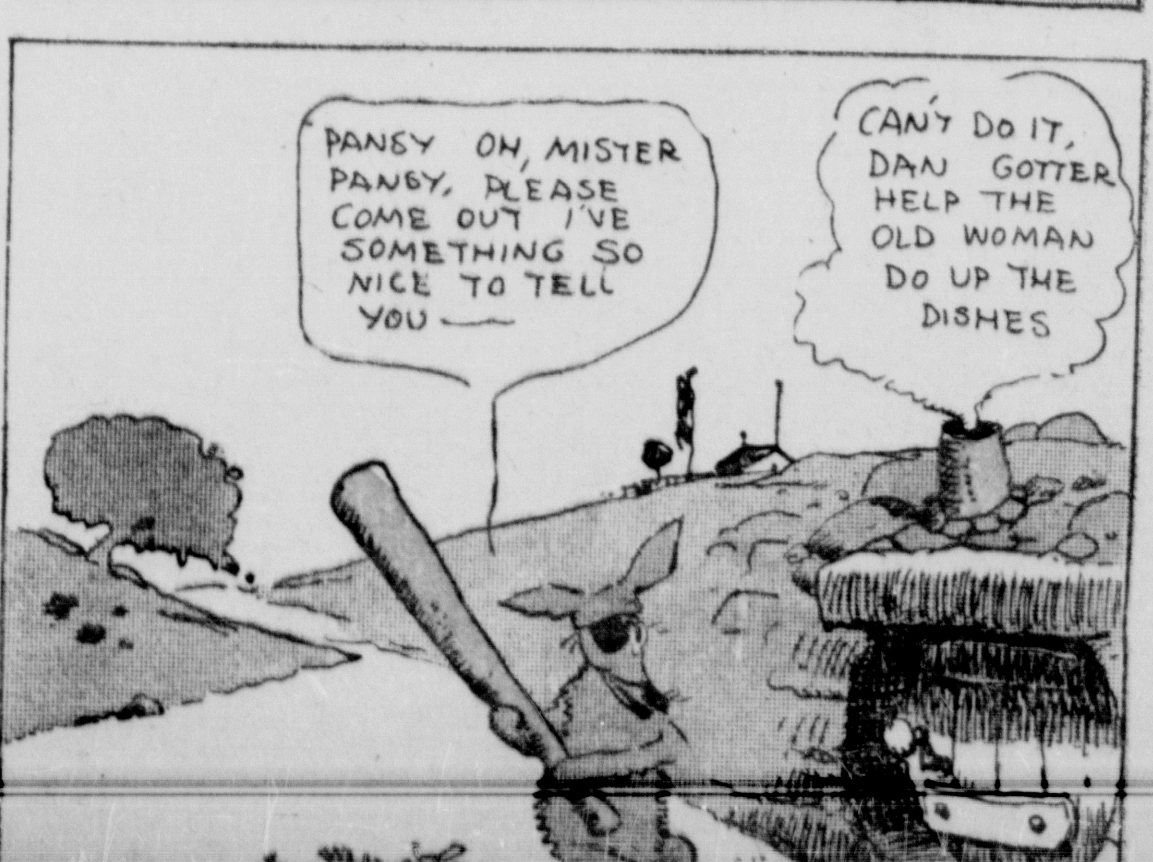

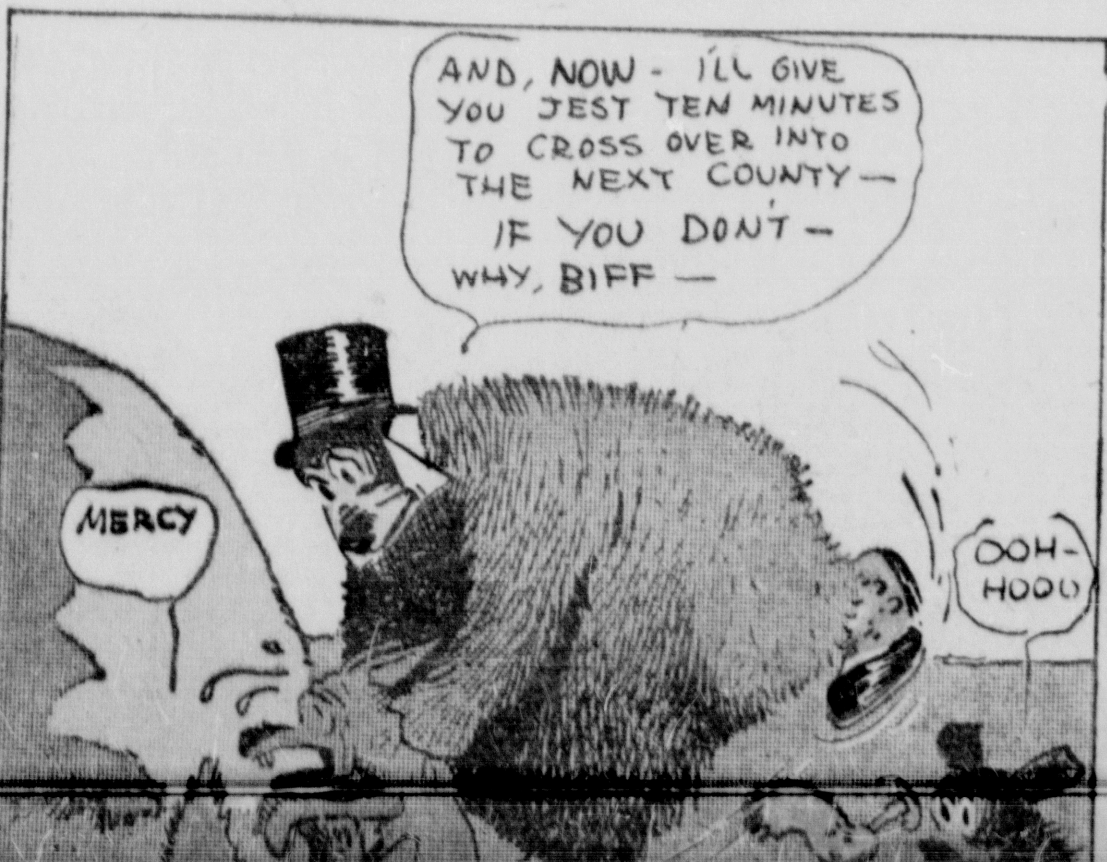

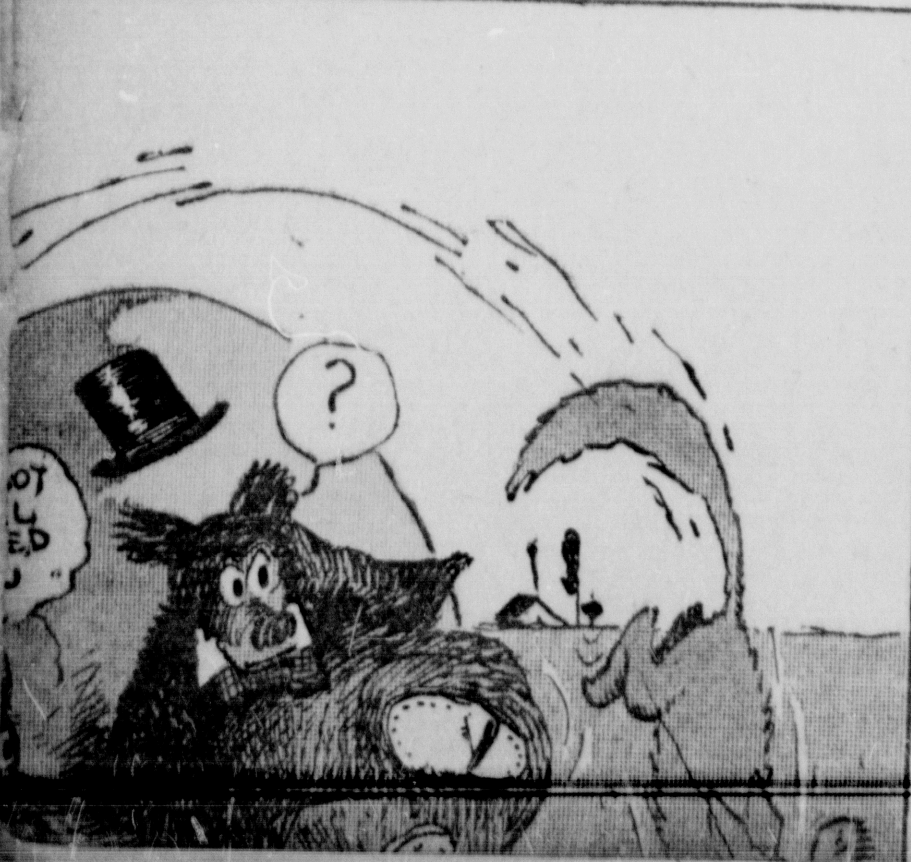

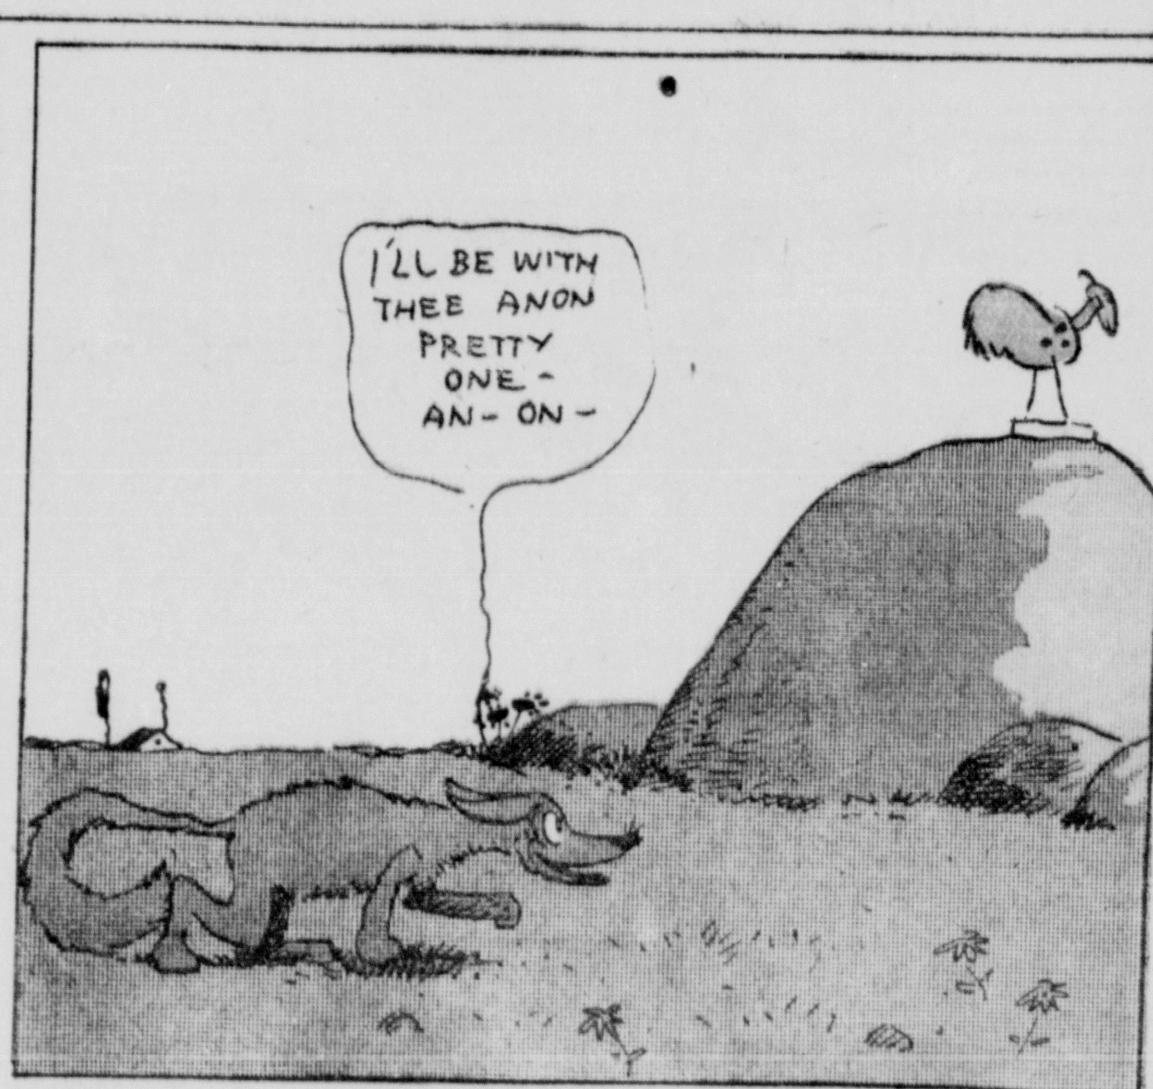

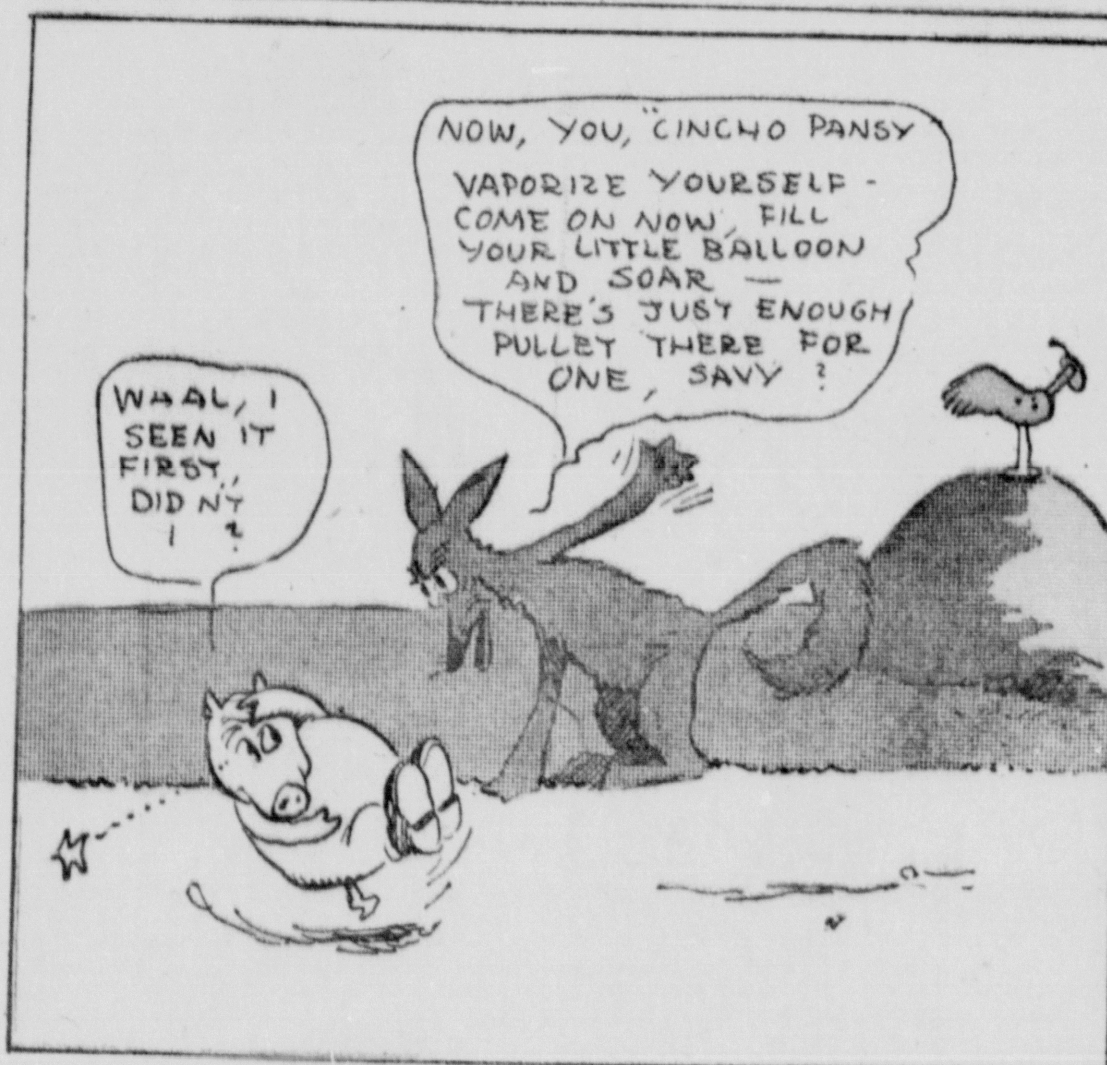

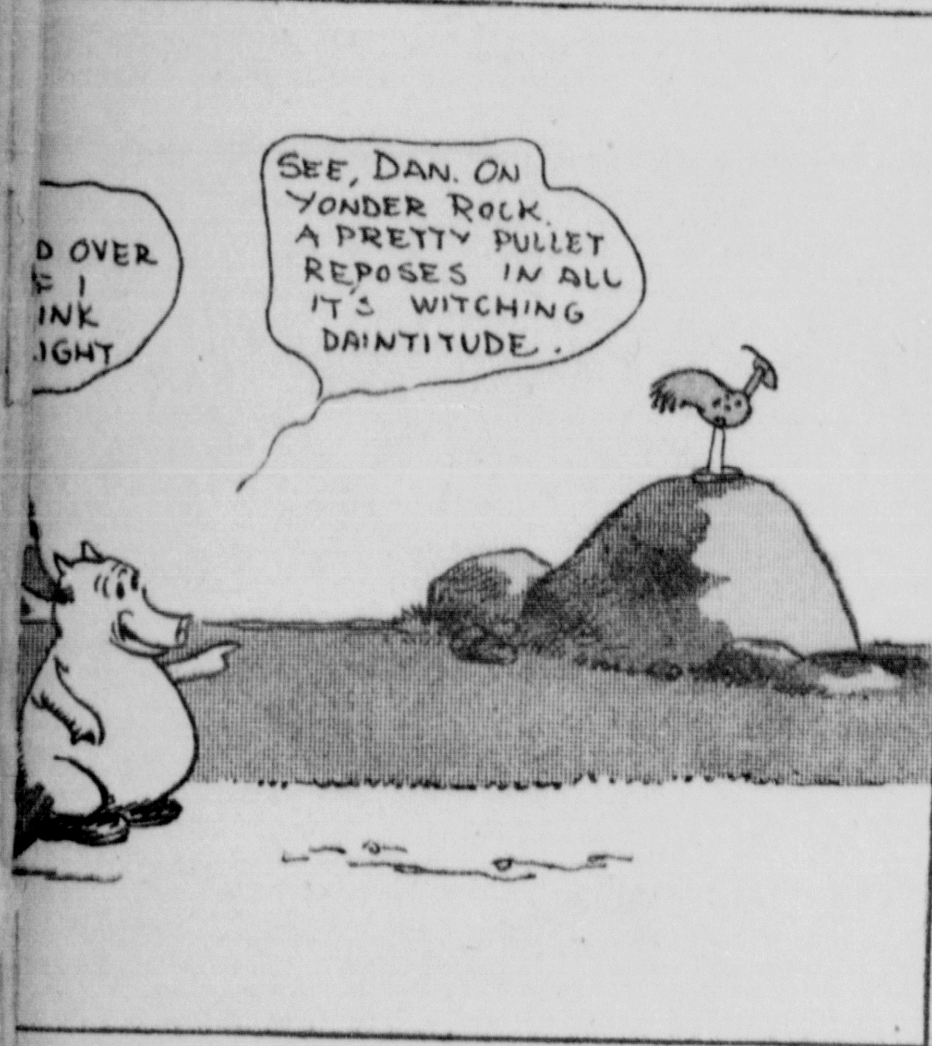

was just going out for the and saw Grandpa Lewis fall ran across the street to he lay.

"See what you boys caused!" cried Pinkie as some of the boys came to help. Fortunately no bones were broken and Grandpa Lewis was soon on his feet.

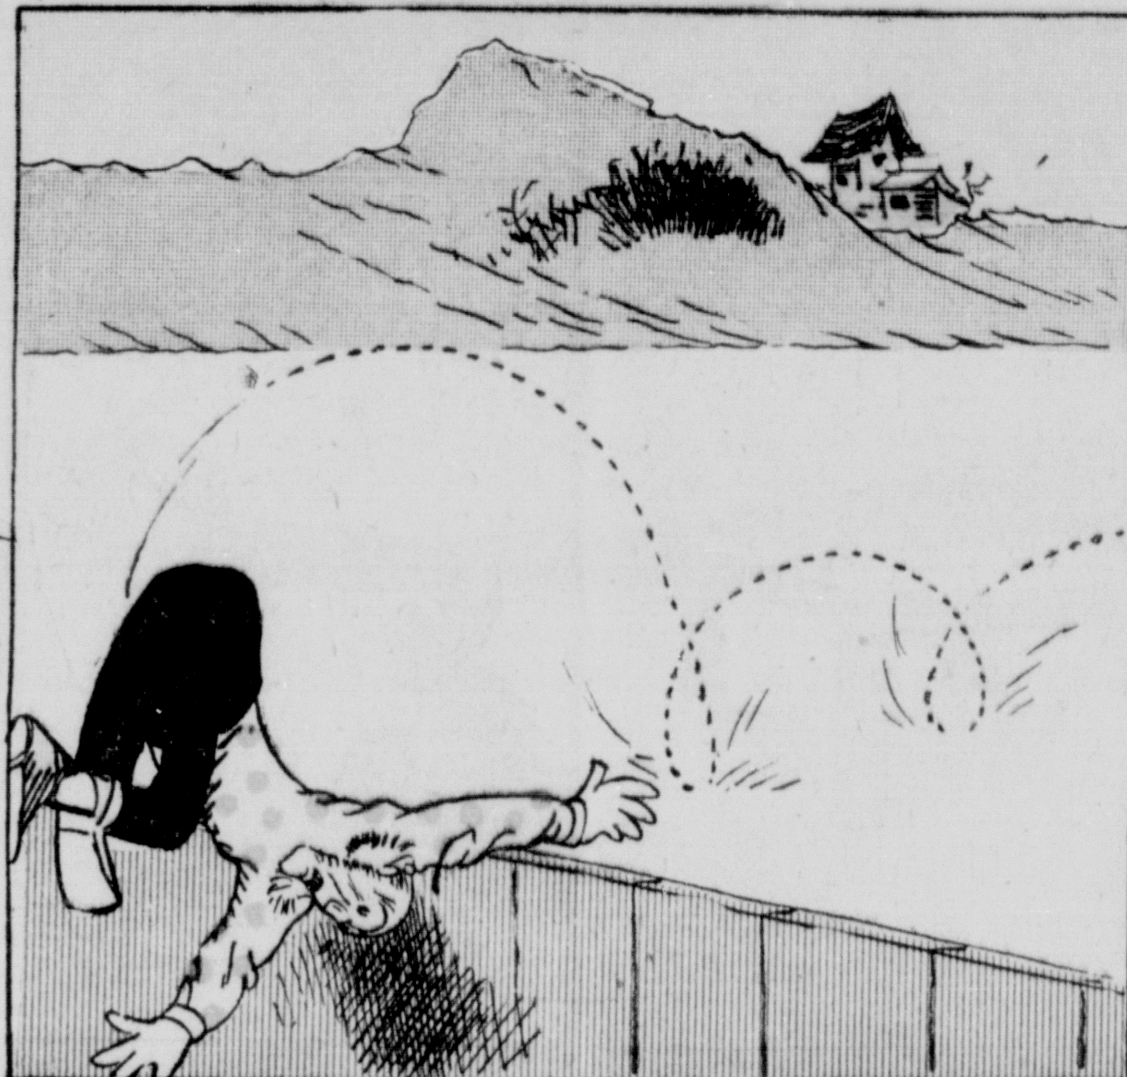

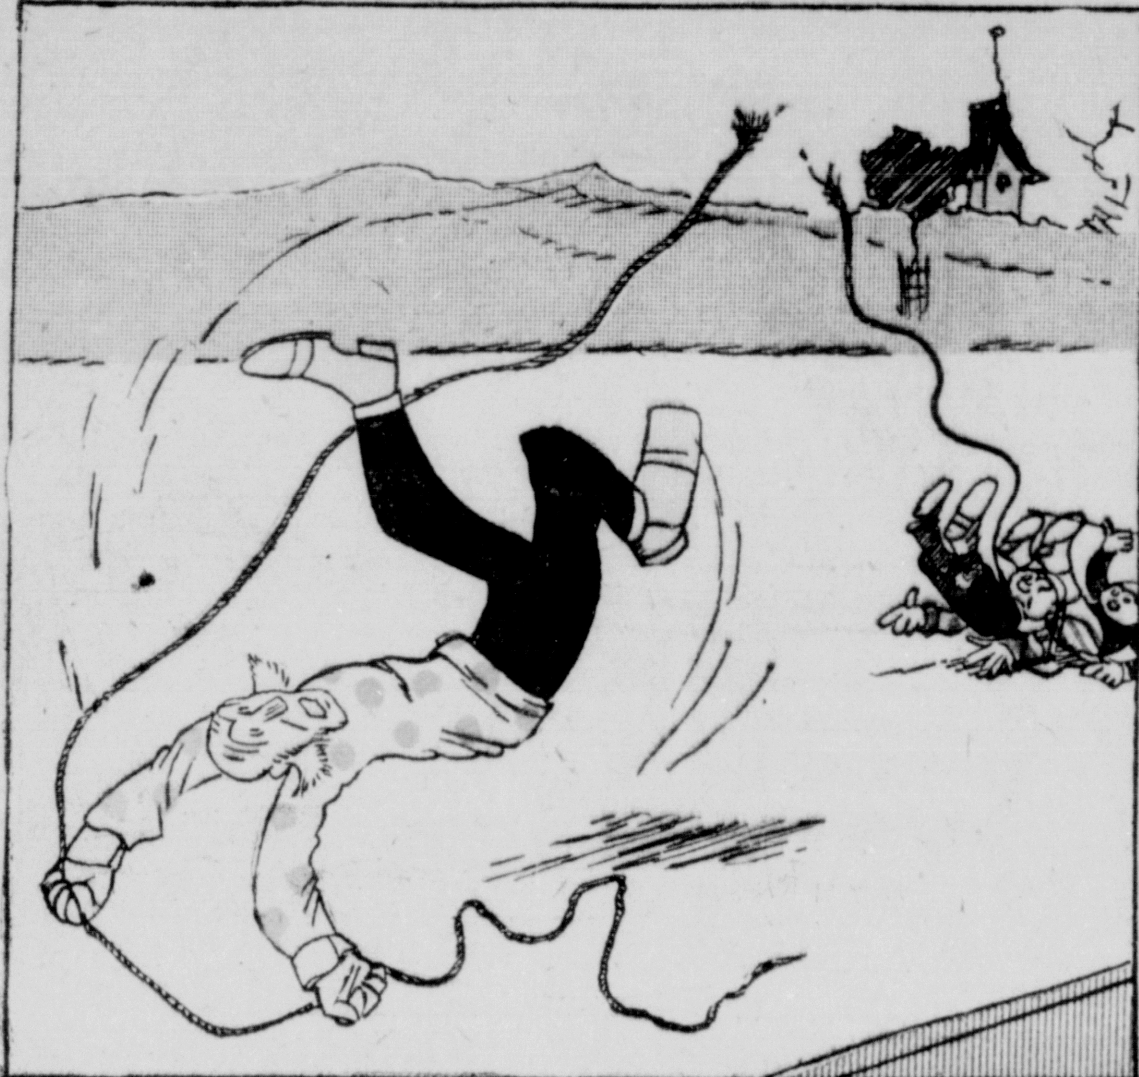

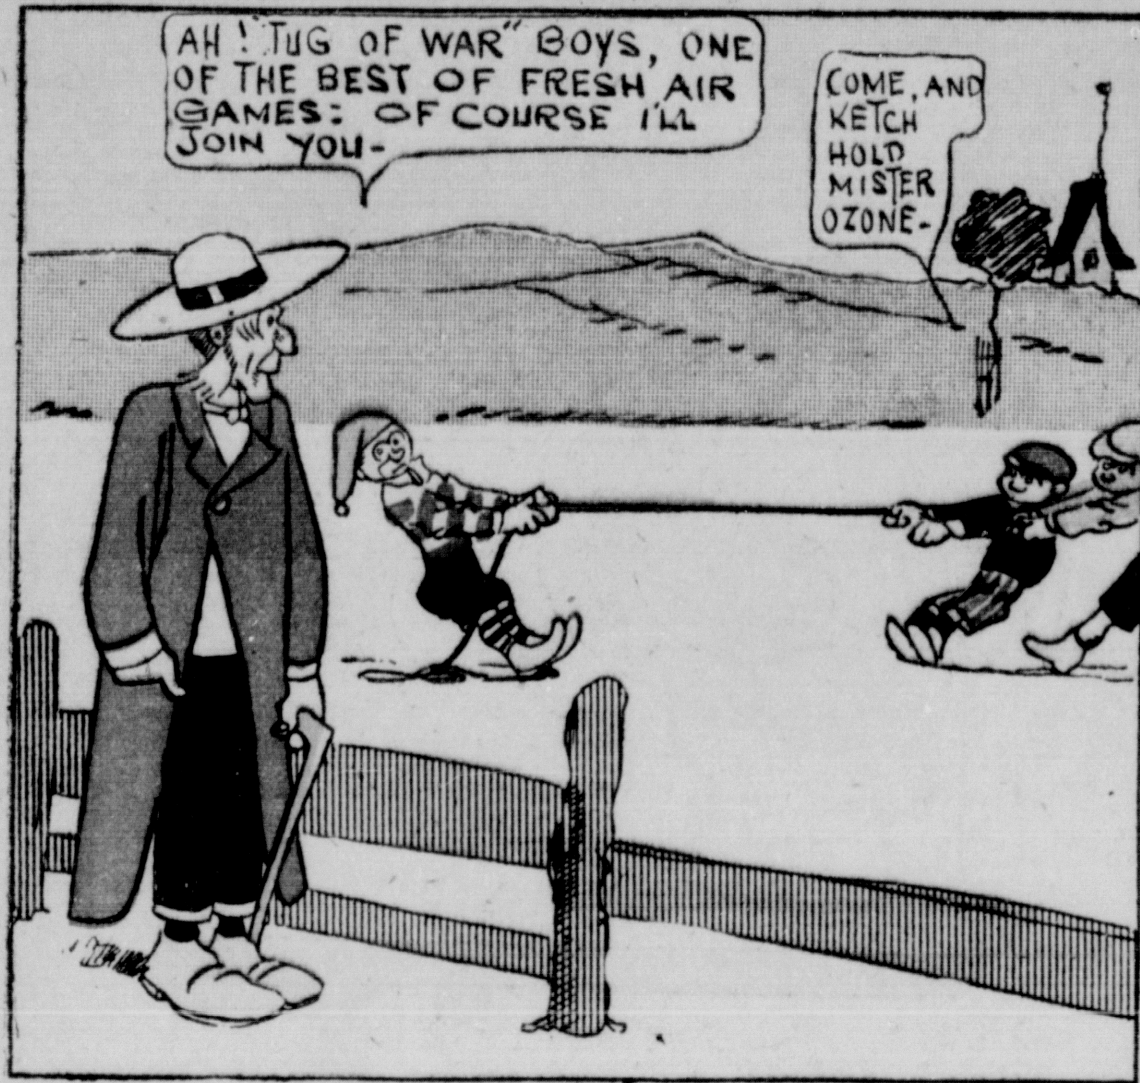

He wasn't mad a bit and only said, "boys will be boys," but Pinkie told them they should be ashamed for iceing the pavement. So the boys promised to clear it off and never ice the pavement again.

PRACTICAL LESSONS IN DRAWING No. 8

- SANTA - • CLAUS •

This time we have a likeness of dear, old Santa Claus, who is so welcome to all children at Christmas time, so see how well you can draw him.

Fig. 2 is the copy from which you must work. Begin by drawing a rough outline of the head, as shown in Fig. 1, measuring the different points marked with crosses so they will come in the right places in relation to each other.

When you have the head blocked and begin the measurements of the body, see how many heads high Fig. 2 is, how many heads wide from elbow to elbow. Measure the distance from the shoulders to the elbow in relation to the head. Measure the width of the arm in relation to the length of hand and width of feet. Measure the length of boots by the head. By fixing crosses at each point measured you can correct them by rough outlines which will give you the drawing, as shown in Fig. 1.

After this is complete and you have all the measurements exact begin by putting in the detail. In making the measurements, crosses and rough outlines, as shown in Fig. 1, pencil your lines very lightly, so that the detail you put on afterward will not be confusing.

It is a good plan to pencil all the lines in before inking unless you are used to handling a pen.

NOTE:—It is imperative that all students of these lessons in drawing should begin with the first lesson and continue through each successive lesson, so if for any reason you have failed to get any of the lessons, be sure and do so by applying at this office. Keep all the lessons

To Save Confusion When Moving.
If you are planning to move, prevent confusion in placing furniture in the new house in the following manner:
In leisure moments prepare a large card for each room, to be tacked to the outside of the door frame on moving day. Assign a number and mark a card for each bedroom. Letter the other cards with the names of the other rooms. Then prepare a number of smaller tags, attaching a string to each (or use baggage tags). Mark enough to put on all furniture, trunks or boxes, with the name of the room into which each is to be put. Show your movers the arrangement, and there will be little or no error in placing, while no valuable time and strength will be lost in directing.

Usefulness of Benzoin.

Tincture of benzoin should be on every dressing table, for it can be used in so many different ways and is both softening and whitening to the skin.
A few drops in a basin of washing water act as a tonic. The tincture can be made at home by crushing an ounce of the pure gum and putting it into a bottle with half a pint of alcohol. It should stand for ten days, shaking the bottle occasionally. At the end of such time it must be strained. A teaspoonful of the tincture to a quart of water is quite sufficient. All cold creams keep better by the addition of a few drops, and it is healing to fever blisters if applied full strength.

Talent, lying in the understanding, is often inherited; genius, being the action of reason and imagination, rarely or never.—Coleridge.

Musical Comedy.

The Columbian Burlesquers, which will be seen here at the Seymour theatre on Dec. 1, is described as one of the jolliest, cleanest and best up-to-date musical extravaganza on the road. Never for an instant does it bring the blush, but instead creates laughter that is irrepressible. For three months it filled Hiner's Theatre, New York City. Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Boston's critical ones also fell quickly in line. The attraction appeals to all that is refined. There is never a jest that can be misconstrued. The comedy is natural. The music is catchy, the scenery is magnificent, the costumes are gorgeous and the cast, headed by Mlle Cioreto, is all that could be desired.

Post office Discontinued.

The post-office at Tampico, will be discontinued after November 30, because the postmaster resigned and there have been no applicants for the place. According to the new postal ruling, postmasters of offices of this class, must be selected through civil service examination. When Ray Keach, who had been postmaster for several years, resigned some time ago.
A civil service examination was announced, but no candidates appeared.
The post-office department has decided to close the Tampico office and begin-

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN A MISTAKE.

By John Temple Graves.

The average man is distinctly growing weary of the noisy and intemperate agitation of a few women for the correction of some imaginary wrongs of the female sex and for the establishment of some purely hypothetical rights.

It is calculated to dissatisfy some wholesome and happy women, and disturb a civilization with which there is nothing materially the matter. The agitation is a half century old and its present expression is notably the incessant complaints against men and a continuous depreciation of the male sex, both in the matter of its morals and its manners.

The present agitation is too fierce. It will react upon itself. Half its energy is expended in abuse of men. The present aggressive movement of the women seems to recognize nothing good in men. Men are failures everywhere—failures as husbands, failures as fathers, failures in all the relations of life, public and private, and "slave wives," fairly blossoming into misery out of comfortable and normal conditions, are supplemented by new-born viragoes openly urging "physical violence in the prosecution of the suffrage cause."

This is dangerous ground for woman. The sharp rivalries of the sexes in the ordinary avocations of life have recently washed away much of the chivalric glamour which enshrined the woman, and street cars and elevators tell the story of the familiarity which has debilitated knighthood. If now the tongue of the termagant is to speak for the sex in this new evangel, there will surely be found men to tell women some reciprocal things that are not complimentary. There are cold-blooded, thinking fellows who see things as they are, and in merciless analysis, without restraint of courtesy, they will tell women what they think.

BRIDGING THE CENTURIES.

By Belle Squire.

In the tragic story of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" the author makes the pregnant statement that the girl Tess was 200 years ahead of her mother, and in the statement lies the clue to all the tragedy that followed. But in the probability of such a suggestion being possible lies our greatest hope for an ultimate civilization.

Here in the cities in countless cases are examples of the younger generation crossing easily and naturally the centuries that their parents have not bridged. Medieval ideas transplanted into the worst conditions fostered by our modern civilization in cities do not make ideal homes, but into such abodes are born many of the children who through our streets and schools. Our city is cosmopolitan. Our people are from many nations and many climates. They represent almost every stage of civilization through which our ancestors have lately passed, and, once here, they are thrust, because of their ignorance and poverty, into the worst conditions which our complex civilization produces in the modern city.

The problem which our schools have to face is this—to carry these children from the stage of civilization in which they are born and live up to our own stage if it is possible, and to combat as well the evils which our civilization has produced for them, for we have by no means attained, as yet, an unmixed good.

We are in the midst of a great change in educational methods and ideas. It has been forced upon us that mere mental cramming or the acquisition of knowledge will not necessarily produce good citizens of itself. We have also begun to realize that the very conditions of life itself have changed radically and that to meet the changed conditions we must change our methods.

To a great extent the regular school is still in bondage to the past, but the summer school, a new institution, designed to meet one phase of the new conditions, is free to experiment and to expand, and in such schools are being performed the miracles of getting the children of the most backward ready to march in the vanguard with the children of the more favored. It is in these schools that the rudiments of the art of living are being taught, and it is in the art of living, more than in mere knowledge, that real civilization lies.

ART WORKS GOOD MUNICIPAL INVESTMENT.

By Sir Wm. H. Bailey.

There are few sights that I admire more than the contemplation of a well-ordered municipality where the freely elected unselfishly serve their fellow citizens by the promotion of the health and prosperity, the education and public happiness and refinement of life, and improve the public taste by the creation of ideals of art and beauty.

I know of no better way of cultivating the imagination than by familiarity with the works of art and beauty by the study of the best poets. Many of our history makers were poor scholars. Their success was founded on their possession of that divine quality, imagination.

The grammar of ornament can be taught by examples only. Harmonies of shape and color become servants of the thoughts of only those whose eyes and fingers have served apprenticeship; and that service may be rendered to the poorest artisans in Paris in these noble institutions. We have an anxious trouble with our unemployed, unskilled most. That is apparent and self-evident. There is another class, of cultured people, educated and refined, who are utterly helpless in times of distress and when overtaken by misfortune. What a great addition to the wealth of the nation it would be if new industries could be created by using our libraries to promote industrial art in the manner that the French libraries of industry are now being used with such apparent success! We import thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of beautiful things which might be made.

FARMING LAND IN COLORADO.

Acres Costing of $15 Each a Few Years Ago Now Worth $2,500.

At the present time Colorado land values are growing at a lively rate, and the end is not yet. It was but a few years ago that fruit land now worth $2,500 an acre was bought for $15 an acre. The cause of this phenomenal increase is irrigation and cultivation.

Colorado is but on the threshold of her greatness as an agricultural state, the Pueblo Chieftain says, and the irrigated lands to be opened to settlement will no doubt be filled upon so eagerly that those who secure the allotted portion will be indeed fortunate. The scarcity of irrigated public land and the small amount estimated to be given to the public for homesteads during the current year not only speak volumes for the overwhelming demand as compared to the supply, but clearly indicate the present sound value of their irrigated land, and, above all, the certain high value of all irrigated lands in Colorado in the immediate future.

Fifteen thousand acres of government irrigated land will be available for settlers in the Uncompahgre project and 50,000 acres of fruit land in Grand Valley, Colorado. The immense sums of money to be expended by the government in the development of these projects will be but a pittance compared to the wealth added to the state by the cultivation of the land thus irrigated. Directly and immediately the benefit will be felt by those sections of the State wherein these projects are located, but no less surely, although indirectly, will the entire State experience the prosperity.

Why Did He Do It?

One of the guests of a seaside boarding house had picked up a curiously shaped stone on the seashore that looked exactly like a half eaten crust of bread. It was being passed around the room, and the finder was evidently feeling pleased with himself at having found something really unique. Every one who saw it exclaimed how like a crust of bread it really was. It at last reached the quiet man in the corner, and the finder went up to him to get his opinion. "Yes," said the quiet man, "it is a striking resemblance. Didn't you think it was a crust of bread when you saw it on the sand?" "Yes," replied the proud finder. "I was completely taken in with it." "Then what on earth did you pick it up for?"

The Way a Benedick Looked at It.

Mrs. Benham—I don't believe a word of your excuse. Benedick—That's just like a woman. I don't suppose Jonah's wife believed the story he told her after he had spent three nights with the whale. Mrs. Benham—How do you know Jonah had a wife? Benedick—He wouldn't have been a Jonah if he had not been married.—Brooklyn Life.

London has 3,500 taxicabs.

Germany has three million trained soldiers.

The torpedo leaves the gun at a rate of forty knots an hour.

Steel ties are being placed on the tracks of the Pittsburgh traction lines.

Each railroad tie treated by the oil process takes up about three gallons of oil.

The portion of the city street which is subjected to the greatest wear is that immediately beside the car tracks.

There were 470 boiler explosions in this country during 1908. There is one greater record. The fatalities numbered 281.

Dry goods manufacturers and retail firms of England are promoting a central commission house in London. It is to be a trust, with the manufacturers controlling prices. France and Germany are to be allowed to have representatives on the board.

The new tariff bill introduced to most people the word quebracho, the extract used in tanning hides. In Paraguay and Argentina this is a large industry, there being thousands of square miles of the quebracho tree. Such land is valued at from $3,000 a square league upward. Quebracho logs are also used for railway ties.

With the assistance of Messrs. H. d'Osmont and Montpillard, Mr. Pavie, a French photographer, has succeeded in obtaining interior photographs in the colors of nature by the use of magnesium light. The exposures are, of course, instantaneous, and the success of the experiments is based upon the employment of a special powder composed of magnesium and phosphorus, which burns with great rapidity, and specially colored screens. The photographs of moving objects are said to be surprisingly perfect in all their colors. The operation is performed as in ordinary photography with magnesium light. That is to say, the lights in the room are not burning when the exposure is made.

A writer in the Elektrotechnische Anzeiger cites many incidents to show that electricity was not unknown to the ancients and that George Ebers' suggestion in a novel that the Egyptians made use of lightning conductors was well founded. Instruments much like the modern heliograph were also used, the writer says, by priests as a means of communicating between the temples. There can be no doubt, he says, as to the temple having been protected by lightning rods. The Biblical description shows that the roof was provided with metallic points held aloft by columns and that these points, ending in chains, terminated in great water tanks. He adds: "All of which is vouched for in the first book of Kings and the second book of Chronicles."

Certain minerals exhibit the curious optical property known as asterism. That is to say, they show a star-shaped figure when light is reflected from them, or transmitted through them. This is seen, for example, in the star stone, a sort of sapphire, and in the star ruby. A note in Knowledge describes and figures the asterism of mica. The photograph of a lamp flame taken through a plate of mica shows a beautiful six-rayed star, with six fainter radiations between. Outwardly star mica resembles the ordinary form and shows the same phenomena under colored light. When examined under the microscope, however, the star mica is found to contain fine needles of another mineral, and these are regularly arranged at angles of 120 degrees. To these needles the star seen by transmitted light is due.

Actors are proverbially improvident, except Francis Wilson, William H. Crane and a few others. But who has any idea that circus performers are the thriftiest class of all public entertainers? They do not sit around in public places telling what great performers they are, and returning flattery with expensive conviviality. Hardly one of them draws more than a quarter of his wages. The circus treasurer is his banker, and at the end of the season Mr. Clown or Miss Bareback Rider draws down a fat roll of bills. Then the vacation is spent—how? Not in high living. For these are of the most frugal classes. Usually a group of performers repairs to a boarding house somewhere in the country, kept by a superannuated lady of the circus. There they erect a private ring, where the spare time is spent in perfecting an act for the next season.—New York Press.

Four years ago the corporation of Glasgow, Scotland, began the substitution of motor power in the service of its fire department, and the results have proved so satisfactory in the use of motor fire vehicles that ultimately horse and steam power will be dispensed with. The central part of Glasgow is protected by three petrol engines, four cylinders each, and capable of developing 50 to 55 horse power, easily maintaining a speed of thirty miles an hour and equipped with all the accessories for aiding the injured. The department also has one motor first-aid machine, carrying an officer and twelve men fully prepared for rescuing imperiled lives, besides one motor fire escape, with an eighty-five foot extension ladder. The American consul has filed detailed specifications with the department of commerce and labor at Washington, which indicates that motor machinery is no longer an experiment in the Scottish fire department.

MAJOR GENERAL O. O. HOWARD, NOTED "CHRISTIAN SOLDIER"

IN THE death of Major General Oliver Otis Howard the United States has lost one of the most notable figures of its military history for the last half century. He served with distinction in the Civil War from beginning to end, and after the war became a figure of national prominence as the head of the Freedmen's Bureau. Subsequently he commanded troops employed in the pacification of the Indians of Arizona and New Mexico. In his later years he had the record of having been in more engagements than any other living officer of the army. Throughout his long career General Howard was noted for his profession of Christianity, being known in this country as "the Christian soldier" and abroad as "the Have-lock of America."

General Howard was born in Leeds, Me., Nov. 8, 1830. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1850, and four years later from West Point, receiving the degree of master of arts in 1853 from Bowdoin. Appointed to army duty, he served as a lieutenant, and at West Point, until the breaking out of the Civil War, when he was appointed colonel of the Third Maine Volunteer Infantry. At the first battle of Bull Run he commanded a brigade of New England troops, and before the war closed he had taken part in twenty-one engagements and risen to the rank of major general.

Distinguished always as a rigid disciplinarian, General Howard always found time for religious services, and his sincerity, though at first questioned in the Civil War, at last became understood and respected. Once he was asked by a civilian: "Is there not much prejudice among soldiers against the Christian in the military service?" "Oh, no," answered General Howard. "On the contrary, the soldiers, all things being equal, relied more upon the man who feared God and tried to keep his commandments. A man might be a professing Christian and yet be a weak, sniveling, good-for-nothing fellow, and they considered all such as hypocrites; but the man who loved and feared God did his duty better, kept his gun cleaner and minded his own business; more, and did every duty with self-sacrifice and fearlessness. Because a man was a Christian he lost no credit either with his company or with his commander."

The kindness, firmness and fairness of General Howard impressed the Apaches with whom he had to deal in Arizona and New Mexico. When it was found necessary to treat with Cochise, the Apache chief, Howard would ask no one to undertake the dangerous mission, but, accompanied by only an aid and an interpreter, went himself, unarmed. He remained thirteen days, and by his tact and showing of a sense of justice made a friend of the bloodthirsty savage.

Many stories are told of General Howard's endeavors to make good Christians out of the soldiers of his command. He never failed to invoke the divine blessing at each meal, and he was a total abstainer from intoxicating drinks throughout his military career. "The true beverage of a soldier is cold water," he once said at a banquet in New York. "In this I pledge you."

HOW THE POLAR EXPLORERS TEST THEIR WHEREABOUTS.

TAKING AN OBSERVATION.

The sextant, to which frequent reference has been made by recent polar explorers, is an instrument small enough to be conveniently held in the hand and is equally well adapted for measuring the altitude of celestial objects in order to obtain the latitude and local time or for measuring the angle between the moon and sun or the moon and a fixed star to ascertain the longitude.

It is called sextant because the measure is recorded on an arc of 60 degrees, one-sixth of a circle. It consists of a frame, usually of metal stiffened by cross braces. The arc at the bottom of the frame is marked off with double the number of degrees actually measured. This is done because the fixed and movable glasses attached to the instrument give a double reflection of the objects observed and thus form an angle with reference to each other equal to only half the angular distance between such objects, one of which is seen directly and the other by reflection. The arc of 120 degrees thus records the actual angle.

Midway on the frame on one side is a telescope and opposite on the other leg of the frame is a glass transparent in the upper half and silvered in the lower half. Both the telescope (ET) and the accompanying figure (H) and the glass (H) are firmly attached to the frame. At the top of the frame is a mirror (C) which is movable by means of an arm (R-M) to which it is fastened. C is called the index glass and the arm (R-M) revolves around it. At M is a shifting scale for making fractional measurements and called a vernier.

The observer takes the instrument in his hand and holds the telescope horizontally. Looking through the telescope he may see the horizon through the transparent surface of the horizon glass H. Then, if wishing to bring the sun into line, he manipulates the mirror C as a child handles a bit of looking glass for the purpose of catching the sun's glare and throwing it into the eyes of a companion. He turns the arm R-M until the mirror C catches its reflection and throws it back to the silvered surface of the glass H. When the sun is thus made to coincide with the horizon the section of the graduated arc over which the arm R-M has passed indicates the measure of the angle in degrees which is exactly determined by the movable fractional scale of vernier.

Arabian astronomers are credited with having used a sextant as far back as the year 995 with a radius of 59 feet 9 inches. The modern instrument was invented independently about 1730 by Thomas Godfrey of Philadelphia and Captain Hadley of the British navy.

Anxious Traveling.

The late William E. Ingersoll, the noted life insurance manager, was an authority on insurance rates.

"Mr. Ingersoll knew the rates all over the world," said a New York manager recently. "The Russian rates are very high. Mr. Ingersoll once explained to me, with a story, why this was. A traveler in Russia, he said, noticed that the train was decorated with flags and banners, and at every station stood a company of soldiers and a band playing the national anthem. The traveler asked the brakeman the reason for all this ceremony. The brakeman, lowering his voice, replied:

"I don't mind telling you, sir—but in the strictest confidence be it understood—that a carriage in this train has been engaged for his majesty. But his majesty, as a matter of fact, won't set off till this evening. Thus the plot hatched against him may take effect on this train, you see, and our gracious sovereign will be saved."

"The brakeman touched his cap and passed on, and the traveler, suddenly grown pale and nervous, stared from his window anxiously."

How He Knew.

"Why is it," asked the blind man of his neighbor, "that the women with the sweetest voices are always ugly?" "How do you know they are ugly?" quizzed the neighbor.

"My wife describes them to me,"—New York Press.

You have probably remarked that most of your compliments are worded in this way: "I like you; I don't see why other people hate you so."

Urging the necessity for greater protection against fire, F. W. Fitzpatrick says that within the last five years our total fire loss has been $1,257,716,000, while it has cost nearly $300,000,000 a year to try to cure the evil with water, and $195,000,000 more handed over to insurance companies who will pay us back about $95,000,000 as balm for our losses. We vote millions for the handling of fire when it breaks out but dole out hundreds toward the prevention of an outbreak.

Continuing he says that our legislation against buildings is aimed toward the benefit of the individual, and really benefits the shyster who preys on the individual, putting up underboxes which he sells to the unwary.

"We should lose no time in absolutely prohibiting combustible construction within the city limits; we should pattern after our European cousins and make the individual responsible for damages that accrue to others' property by reason of his negligence.

"The community could encourage the individual into building properly by revising the order of taxation. As things are now, a man building a first-class fireproof construction spends initially more than he would for a fire-trap. He is taxed upon the value of that property and therefore pays a tax on that additional sum that he has expended. Consequently, he pays more tax than his neighbor who has the fire-trap, yet he is causing the city less expense by not requiring the services of the fire department. The tax should be graded in accordance with the class of construction, the maximum rate on inferior stuff that requires maximum protection.

"Then, too, the International Society of Building Commissioners has strongly advocated a most effective measure, the labeling of all buildings of a public or semi-public nature as to their class of construction: 'Fireproof,' 'ordinary,' 'dangerous.' The word 'fireproof' is used altogether too glibly. Have the departments do this labeling and make it a very serious offense for anyone to advertise his building as being of a better class than that to which it really belongs, and you will take a very broad step ahead.

"We have been given such spectacular lessons in the last few years, such conflagrations as Baltimore's, San Francisco's and Boston's, that we must indeed be dense and stupid in the extreme if we are not willing and anxious to do something to prevent the repetition of those appalling catastrophes."—Utica Globe.

Couldn't Say Anything.

The boy had been repeatedly warned about running to the neighbors and had even that day made the best of promises before gaining liberty. Yet no sooner was the door safely shut behind him than he had disappeared like magic.

"Why did you go to Garner's?" demanded his father upon his return. The boy looked steadfastly at the floor.

"I am waiting for an answer." Still silence.

"Come," said his father, losing patience; "don't stand like that! Speak up like a man."

"Well," said the boy, raising reluctant eyes, "you've got me right where I can't say anything."

ROCK ISLAND TO BREAK UP

Big Combination Not Working to Suit All.

HAWLEY SIDE TO PULL OUT

It is Said That Negotiations Are Now Under Way For a Division of the Property of the Rock Island Road—Not a Divorce For Cause, It is Said, but Merely a Separation Based Upon Incompatibility of Temper—The Rapidly Growing Hawley Interests to Be Strengthened by Yoakum Acquisition.

New York, Nov. 27.—A division is contemplated, it is said of the property of the Rock Island company, which is one of the biggest of the railroad holding companies and controls a mileage second only to the Union Pacific systems among the railroad organizations of the world. If the negotiations are successful—and it was learned that indications pointed strongly in that direction—the St. Louis & San Francisco with its dependent lines, a total mileage of 6,530 and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific with its subsidiaries and a mileage of 8,048 will be operated and managed thereafter independently of each other. There have been greater consolidations, but this transaction contemplates the greatest dissolution in the history of corporate management since and before combinations of industrial or railroad companies aroused economic and political discussion. Yet it was declared by one of the men most active in the negotiations that the proposed dissolution was entirely without relationship to the decision of the United States circuit court in the Standard Oil case. The combination, he said, had never been attacked or threatened by the government and was in no way a violation of the Sherman act.

"The parting of the two systems is not a divorce," he added, "at least not in the sense that any fault had been committed. It is simply a separation for incompatibility of temper."

In other words, it was explained, the motive for the negotiations is simply a tentative agreement to disagree among members of the Rock Island party. B. F. Yoakum, who in association with Daniel G. Reid, Judge W. H. Moore and J. H. Moore, has made up the party since the death of W. B. Leeds, was in control of the St. Louis & San Francisco before these men joined fortunes in 1902. He has latterly associated himself with Edwin Hawley in the control of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and in other enterprises, and this diversity of interest, it was said, has made it in the interest of all parties to return to Mr. Yoakum and his new associates the property with which he joined the Rock Island party and to retain, independent of Mr. Yoakum, the system controlled by the original members of the Rock Island party before the merger.

In case, as is expected, Edwin Hawley turns up in control of the Frisco in association with Mr. Yoakum, the number of the rapidly increasing Hawley roads, so-called, will be increased by one with a mileage as great as any of those at present so aligned. In addition to the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the Hawley party now controls the Chicago & Alton, Chesapeake & Ohio, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Minneapolis & St. Louis, and Iowa Central. A merger of all these lines may be impracticable for the reason that there is some competition between a few of them, but even if held as at present, they constitute one of the railroad systems with the greatest mileage, in some localities, with the greatest strength.

Mrs. Ford Indicted.
Cincinnati, Nov. 27.—The grand jury returned an indictment against Mrs. Jeanette Stewart Ford, known as the woman in the Warriner Big Four shortage case. The charge in the indictment is "receiving stolen money." Mrs. Ford appeared at the court and gave $2,500 bond in connection with the indictment.

Justice of the Peace at Terre Haute Commits an Illinois Man For Contempt of Court For Conveying an Intimation That the Court Had Been Bribed in the Administration of Justice—Man Who Had Caused Arrestment of Another, Incensed at Acquittal, Made a Remark That Got Him in Bad With the Court.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 27.—When Justice Hirsch acquitted Charles Reed on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, because he armed himself with a revolver while driving through the country, Reed's brother-in-law, Charles Mulvane, who had preferred the charge, angered by the decision, asked the justice, "How much did he give you?" referring to the fact that the justice had conferred for a moment with the attorney representing Reed. "I will give you three hours in jail and a fine of $5 for contempt of court," replied the justice. Mulvane wished the justice to accept $20 and throw off the jail sentence, but Justice Hirsch would not do it.

After serving the jail sentence Mulvane called on several lawyers to get one of them to bring suit against Justice Hirsch for $5,000 damages on account of the jail sentence, but the lawyers declined and Mulvane returned to his home in the oil district of Illinois, declaring he would get an attorney there to bring the suit.

Indiana Man Says He Was Severely Injured During Initiation.

Brazil, Ind., Nov. 27.—James Eckard of Staunton has filed a suit in the circuit court against Staunton lodge No. 415, I. O. O. F., for $5,000 damages. He alleges in his complaint that in December, 1907, while being initiated in the second degree, he was thrown to the floor and all the members of the lodge sprang on him like football players, breaking three of his ribs and injuring him so seriously that he was unable to leave his bed for two months.

Ten More Suspects Let Out of Customs Service.

PRACTICALLY CONCLUDES LIST

The Dismissal of This Latest Batch is Said to Complete the General Housecleaning That the Collector Has Been Carrying on as a Result of the Discovery of the Underweighing Frauds—James Reynolds's Indorsement as Clarkson's Successor Has Not Yet Been Confirmed.

New York, Nov. 27.—Collector William Loeb, Jr., has dropped ten more assistant weighers from the customs service. The dismissal of this batch completes the general housecleaning that the collector has been carrying on as a result of the discovery of the underweighing frauds. There are still, however, some individual cases on which the collector may deem it wise to act later.

The employees dropped were civil service appointees, and men from the civil service list of eligibles have been selected by the collector and by Deputy Surveyor Richard Parr to fill the vacancies. The names of the men were not made public because there was not sufficient evidence to warrant formal charges against them. To Collector Loeb, however, the developments of the investigation made it apparent that the services of these men ought to be dispensed with for the good of the service. This last batch makes a total of eighty-three weighers who have been dropped since the housecleaning began. Twenty-five per cent of the entire number of weighers in the service have been dismissed since Mr. Loeb went in, and about 15 per cent of the entire customs force.

Collector Loeb is keeping close-mouthed about the appointment of a successor to General Clarkson as surveyor. It is said that the collector had recommended James Bronson Reynolds, one of Colonel Roosevelt's pets, who investigated the beef trust and the Isthmus of Panama among other things, for surveyor, and that Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has concurred in this selection. President Taft, however, would not give the place to Reynolds because he had him in mind for a job under the government in Panama. The president, it is said, believes Reynolds's knowledge of conditions on the isthmus will make him a useful citizen on the isthmus.

Thomas C. Giddings, an assistant United States customs weigher, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Marshal Henkel on an indictment by the federal grand jury charging him with conspiracy to effect the entry of two consignments of figs imported from Greece at less than their true weight. The weigher was arraigned before Judge Holt in the United States court and held in $2,500 bail for trial.

TO FIGHT CANNON

This Is the Reason Reisenburg Wants to Go to Congress.

Indianapolis, Nov. 27.—Henry Reisenburg, who originated the national tariff commission convention, has determined to stand for the Republican congressional nomination in this district on the anti-Cannon platform.

"The business men," he said, "are dissatisfied with the present tariff, and Cannon and Aldrich dominate all legislation. It does not redeem the Republican pledges made them for real revision. They have approached me as a possible candidate for congress because they understand that as the proposer of a national movement to urge tariff revision by the permanent commission plan, I am already completely and publicly committed to progressive tariff reform and for the creation of machinery which would put an end to great periodic tariff agitation and upheavals, by making tariff changes continually as the conditions in this country and foreign lands warrant."

The president has selected Richard Keren of St. Louis for minister to Austria.
